

Remembrance Day Essay

By: Aaliyah Thomson

Freedom, sacrifice and bravery are only a few things that come to my mind when I think of Remembrance Day. I think of freedom because this country wouldn't be as free and peaceful as it is now without the sacrifice and bravery that those men and women. Those who were willing to fight for our country. Not only were they fighting for our beautiful country they also fought for us, yes complete strangers. Because of your selflessness, for this country, you gifted all of us with peace and harmony.

I can't imagine the courageous men and women that left their families for the benefit of everyone else. Everytime I go outside or go for a walk I think to myself that if it wasn't for them, the world wouldn't be how it is right now or at least our country. So I am so thankful for everything they did for our country. I am forever grateful for it and will never take advantage of what I was given.

If I was ever asked the question "why do we wear poppies?" I would say it's a sign of respect for the veterans who risked their lives just for our rights and freedom. Honour, to the soldiers who unfortunately did not return back home to see their families. May they rest in peace, knowing that what they did for us was well worth it. They may be gone but never forgotten.
